Fiorelli, 1003 Acacia, who has won recognition for her delicious Italian dishes, today gives HERALD readers a preview of the dinner to be served on guest night at the Torrance Woman's Club, on Wednesday, Feb. 1, at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Fiorelli, chairman of the dinner will serve her famous Baked La Sagna. And now for the tempting

BAKED LA SAGNA

Cook 1 lb. La Sagna noodles as directed on package. (Mrs. Fiorelli adds 2 tsp. olive or salad oil to prevent sticking). In the meantime, mix 1 lb. ricotta with 4 eggs, 2 tsp. salt and pepper, 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1 tsp. parsley and 1/3 mazzarella, which has been grated on a coarse grater.

When La Sagna is cooked, drain the boiling water and fill with cold water. (This prevents noodles from sticking together and facilitates handling).

In a 3-inch deep baking pan or casserole, alternate layers of sauce, noodles, ricotta mixture and meatballs and Italian sausages, which have been cooked in tomato sauce and chopped into several pieces. (For sausages neither too hot nor too sweet, request that fennocchio seed be omitted). End with sauce on top and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Bake in 350 degree oven about 30 minutes. Serve with additional meat balls, sauce and grated cheese.

Other than the flavor, the nicest thing about this dish is that it actually is improved by setting and re-heating the next day.

MEATBALLS AND TOMATO SAUCE

Mix together:

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 tsp. chopped parsley
- 1 heaping tsp. grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 clove crushed garlic
- 2 eggs
- 4 tsp. milk
- 2 handful bread crumbs
- Salt and pepper (use plenty)

Mix thoroughly and form into round balls (about 12) and fry in heavy skillet in 1-inch olive or salad oil. Brown evenly. Remove from pan and set aside. Pour off half of the oil. In remaining fat, saute 1 carrot, 1/2 sweet pepper and 1/2 onion (all chopped). Add one large can tomatoes (which have been forced through a sieve), 1 can paste, 2 small cans water, 1 clove garlic, and 1 bay leaf. Cook in skillet for about 10 minutes. Then place all ingredients except meat balls in large sauce pan (1 lb. sausages may be added here). Simmer 30 minutes. Add meatballs and simmer for 1 hour.

A Fable of Our Time

With a distinct nod in the general direction of Mr. J. Thurber

Once upon a time there lived in Torrance three bears, a papa bear, a mama bear, and a baby bear. Now papa bear, whose name was Harry, always paid his bills by the tenth of the month, almost never spit on the sidewalk, and voted the straight ticket.

Harry was a very normal bear indeed. He had only two very prime desires, the first was to have his wife stop talking all the time and the second was to walk in looking neither right nor left and buy a new car.

When whoosh, over the TV screen came a big, bad car dealer who huffed and puffed so loudly and violently that Harry Bear's wife stopped talking, and Harry was so pleasantly surprised that he didn't notice what the car dealer was but only that he talked very well indeed.

So Harry Bear ran as fast as he could out to his old car that was worth four thousand dollars in trade, to drive to the car dealer's place of business that was only ten minutes away from anywhere.

When Harry Bear arrived late the next afternoon at the car dealer's, wishing that he had packed his lunch, the car dealer told Harry that his car had aged so considerably during Harry's drive to his place of business that it was worth only two hundred dollars. However, Harry could still take a new car home. To do so, Harry would only have to pay fifty-five dollars a week for thirty-six months. And just as Harry Bear was about to say O.K., he got a look at himself in the mirror and he saw that he was changing. His whole appearance was changing—from a bear to a monkey. So he called on Doctor Oscar Maples, who restored him to his original bear-like condition.

MORAL: Sometimes bears try to make monkeys of other bears. This never happens when you shop at home, particularly at Oscar Maples Ford Inc.
